fifth floor of 737 Buena Vista West, south of the Panhandle, and west of the Haight-Ashbury district in San Francisco. The label has black lettered text on a red label. The "Stealin'" side is cataloged as "003/201" and the "Don't Ease Me In" side is "002/201". This was the Dead's first recording contract. Both "Don't Ease Me In" and "Stealin'" are credited to Garcia. The original run was about 250 singles. It was recalled soon after release, possibly because the band did not like the tracks. Pressed around the hole are a flowing-script handwritten "Commercial Recorders Inc.", block-lettered hand-printed matrix numbers "002/201" and "003/210" (on the corresponding sides), the full song titles for each side, and a handwritten symbol that resembles two "SS" with an "L" through them. On the "Don't Ease Me In" side, the ratio between grooves and wax is about even. Also recorded during these sessions were takes of "Stealin'" (instrumental and vocals), "Don't Ease Me In" (instrumental and vocals), "You Don't Have To Ask" (vocals), "Tastebud" (instrumental and vocals), I Know You Rider (vocals), and "Cold Rain And Snow" (instrumental and vocals). These have been released on "The Golden Road" box set.

Stealin' (2:32) / Don't Ease Me In (2:00) - The Grateful Dead (Scorpio 201) The single was bootlegged in the 1970s. These bootlegged versions do not have the flowing-script handwritten "Commercial Recorders Inc." text in the runout area. They only have the song titles and matrix numbers.

Viola Lee Blues (Part 1) / Viola Lee Blues (Part 2) - The Greatful Dead (Warner Brothers BR 1781) The promotional single was released in Japan on red vinyl, with a white and light blue label. It was packaged in a Toshiba paper sleeve. The information on the label includes "9/5 Rush" and gives the band name as "THE GREATFUL DEAD", all typed. The cover of the four page insert shows a portion of the first album cover, but in red and yellow colors, and lists the titles as "VIOLA LEE BLUES (PART1 . PART2)", and lists the band name in Japanese only. The price is listed as 370 yen. Page 2 of the insert lists the song titles and has a short write up about the band. Page 3 of the insert includes the lyrics:

Viola Lee Blues (Part 1) Just the cleanest perfume wrote it But it wrote it down neatly Just the cleanest perfume wrote it If you miss till seven You'll be left alone

Some got 6 months Some got one solid Some got one solid Yea, need it Some got 6 months Some got one solid But in my mother All got one fine year

I don't let her make it easy Make it easy, yea, need it Don't let her make it easy, yea You may know by later I've got a friend somewhere

Viola Lee Blues (Part 2)

I don't let her make it easy Make it easy, yea, need it Don't let her make it easy, yea You may know by later I've got a friend somewhere

Viola Lee Blues (Part 1) / Viola Lee Blues (Part 2) - The Grateful Dead (Warner Brothers BR 1781) The single was released in Japan on black vinyl, with a red, full color label. The information on the label gives the band name as "THE GREATFUL DEAD".

Sons And Daughters (2:40) / Fire In The City (3:20) - Jon Hendricks (Verve VK-10512) The Grateful Dead back up jazz vocalist Jon Hendricks on "Fire In The City". This single is from the soundtrack to the documentary film "Fire In The City". Released in April, 1967 on the blue with silver printing Verve label. On the "Fire In The City" side of the single, it states that the film is called "Sons And Daughters" by American Documentary Films.

Dark Star (2:50) / Born Cross-Eyed (3:00) - The Grateful Dead (Warner Bros. - Seven Arts 7186) A studio "Dark Star" and a slightly different mix of "Born Cross-Eyed" than on the "Anthem Of The Sun" album. Released in April, 1968. "Dark Star" was recorded in the New York studio during the "Anthem Of The Sun" sessions. Robert Hunter, in his first appearance on a Grateful Dead recording, speaks the "mystery" lyrics at the end of "Dark Star": "Spinning a set of stars through which the tattered tails of axis rolls about the waxen wind of never set to motion in the unbecoming round about the season hardly matters nor the wise through which the stars were set in spin." The first verse to "Dark Star" was written by Hunter after hearing the Dead perform a jam at the Dance Hall, Rio Nido, CA, (possibly the jams during "Dancing In The Street") on September 3, 1967, and it was completed in Golden Gate Park while Hunter was staying at 710 Ashbury Street in San Francisco.

Dark Star (2:50) / Born Cross-Eyed (3:00) - The Grateful Dead (Warner Bros. - Seven Arts 7186) Released on the "green" Warner Brothers label with a picture sleeve. The cover features a color photo of just the band members, with the same theme as the photo on the back cover of the "Aoxomoxoa" album. The band name is across the top and the song titles are across the bottom.

A portion of this footage includes an extreme overhead shot from behind Mickey Hart, showing his drum kit and Hart in action. This movie also may have been called (released as) "Columbia Strike '68". There is no real title sequence in the movie, other than "the Newsreel". Available for download at http://www.archive.org/movies/movieslisting-browse.php?collection=prelinger&cat=New%20York%20City and search for "Columbia Revolt". There is approximately an additional 9 1/2 minutes of film from the concert that was not used in the movie, none of it with sound from the performance.

60 Minutes - CBS (March 4, 1969) The segment "The House That Rock Built" is about the Fillmore East and Bill Graham. It includes an interview by Mike Wallace with Bill Graham and with Janis Joplin on February 11, 1969 at the Fillmore East. Other clips show the Grateful Dead backstage and performing on stage with the sound overdubbed from records. Janis Joplin and her new band and the Grateful Dead played at the Fillmore East on February 11 and 12, 1969.

Playboy After Dark (Playboy) The Grateful Dead play "Mountains Of The Moon", "St. Stephen", and "Turn On Your Lovelight" on this July 10, 1969 broadcast. The program was recorded on January 18, 1969 at Television City in Hollywood. The bands segment starts with a discussion between Hugh Hefner and Jerry Garcia, who is wearing a stripe patterned green colored serape and not wearing glasses. An acoustic "Mountains Of The Moon" is played, with just Garcia and Weir on acoustic guitars, Phil Lesh on bass, Tom Constanten on harpsichord, and Pigpen on congas. The whole band, with Pigpen on congas, plays "St. Stephen", which appears to have been highly edited. The "St. Stephen" ends with "...the Answer Man?" lyric and segues into a jam which is faded out. "Turn On Your Lovelight" was played over the closing credits, although the band was not shown playing the song. Present at the party are Barbi Benton, Sid Ceaser, Noel Harrison, and Sydney Omarr, "The Astrologer to the Stars".

Playboy After Dark (Playboy Cable, (310) 246-4000) The "Playboy After Dark" shows from 1969 were re-broadcast during the second half of 1992 over the Playboy Channel on cable television. On Program No. 23 (the July 10, 1969 show, re-broadcast in December, 1992) the Grateful Dead appear and play "Mountains Of The Moon", "St. Stephen", and "Turn On Your Lovelight". The original program was recorded on January 18, 1969.

Playboy After Dark - Volume 2 (Playboy) The "Playboy After Dark" episode with the Grateful Dead is included on this three DVD release that contains six episodes.

Zabriskie Point (Michaelangelo Antonioni, producer) The soundtrack contains an excerpt of "Dark Star" from "Live/Dead" (heard when the lead actor 'borrows' an airplane in L.A.), and "Love Scene", an acoustic guitar solo by Garcia (heard during the desert love scene).

Woodstock (Michael Wadleigh, 1970, approximately 184 minutes long) T. C., Kreutzmann, and Pigpen are seen briefly, walking, and then Jerry Garcia appears for a few moments and says "Marijuana. Exhibit A".

Woodstock - 25th Anniversary Edition (1995, director's cut, approximately 228 minutes long) T. C., Kreutzmann, and Pigpen are seen briefly, walking, and then Jerry Garcia appears for a few moments and says "Marijuana. Exhibit A".

Woodstock - The Director's Cut (ISBN 0790729350, approximately 225 minutes long, one dual-sided single-layered DVD) The Grateful Dead played at Woodstock and their performance was filmed, but it was not included in the film release. There are two short segments in the film where members of the band do appear. From about 15:45 to 16:18, Jerry Garcia, wearing a "Woodstock" shirt and yellow glasses, sitting down and working on his guitar, talks about the festival and describes it as a "biblical, epochal, unbelievable scene". This segment ends with a woman bringing him a cup of something to drink, saying "Jerry, it was all frozen, so this is all I could get." From about 21:31 to 21:58, Tom Constanten, Bill Kreutzmann, carrying a diaper bag and with his wife and baby Justin, and Pigpen, carrying a tan brown leather valise and accompanied by Veronica Grant, are shown walking from the helicopter that just landed them at the festival site. This is followed by the scene with Jerry Garcia, wearing yellow colored glasses, holding a white cigarette-shaped object in his right hand, saying "Marijuana. Exhibit A."

Woodstock: 3 Days Of Peace & Music - Ultimate Collector's Edition (2009) This is the fortieth anniversary release of the "Woodstock - Director's Cut" film. This was released in several versions. A single DVD version was released that contains only the film. The two DVD release includes the film on one DVD and two hours of additional film footage on the second DVD which includes the Grateful Dead performing "Turn On Your Lovelight". Amazon released a "exclusive" version with additional film footage that includes the Grateful Dead performing "Mama Tried". This "Amazon exclusive" version was also released on in the Blu-ray format. Target stores released a two DVD "collector's edition" that had different additional film footage that includes only "Turn On Your Lovelight" by the Grateful Dead.

Jimi Hendrix: Live At Woodstock ( ) A two DVD release of Jimi Hendrix at Woodstock. On disc two, at about 7:28 into the "Eddie Kramer: Recording Woodstock" chapter, there is a very brief snippet of Jerry Garcia with an acoustic guitar.

Go Ride The Music - With the: Jefferson Airplane, Quicksilver Messenger Service (NET) Recorded in 1970, this one hour program includes footage of the Jefferson Airplane playing in a non-audience stage (studio?) setting, and the Quicksilver Messenger Service playing outdoors and backstage ("This Girl Was Sleeping", "Subway", and "Mona"). Jerry Garcia appears twice, briefly, in long shots, sitting in the shade in back of a house, commenting on the San Francisco music scene. The second time he is on, two children are playing on a tire swing in the viewer left foreground. Produced by Ralph J. Gleason and Robert N. Zagone for KQED in San Francisco. The 16 track recording was done by Bob and Betty Matthews for Alembic Sound.

San Francisco Rock: A Night At The Family Dog - Santana, Grateful Dead, and Jefferson Airplane (NET) Recorded on February 4, 1970 at the Family Dog At The Great Highway in San Francisco. The Grateful Dead play "Hard To Handle", "China Cat Sunflower" > "I Know You Rider", and members of the band appear in the jam at the end. Broadcast on NET (which became PBS) in 1970. Sancho was the family dog of the Family Dog commune that put on the dances. The program was produced by Ralph Gleason and Robert Zagone with sound by Bob Matthews and Betty Cantor. This was the first of a two part series. The second part, entitled "Go Ride The Music" was broadcast in 1970 and features performances by the Jefferson Airplane and Quicksilver Messenger Service.

Go Ride The Music - Jefferson Airplane and Quicksilver Messenger Service (NET) This program was broadcast in 1970 and features performances by the Jefferson Airplane and Quicksilver Messenger Service. Jerry Garcia makes a brief appearance during the program.

San Francisco Rock: A Night At The Family Dog (Eagle Rock 2030122-9, June 28, 2005) This DVD release is the National Educational Television (NET) broadcast from 1970. The performance took place on February 4, 1970 at the Family Dog At The Great Highway in San Francisco. The audio for the release was taken from the mono source material and remastered to stereo and 5.1 surround sound. On the DVD are performances by Santana ("Incident At Neshabur" and "Soul Sacrifice"), the Grateful Dead ("Hard To Handle, "China Cat Sunflower" > "I Know You Rider"), Jefferson Airplane ("The Ballad Of You And Me And Pooneil" and "Eskimo Blue Day"), and a super jam at the end with members of all three bands. http://www.eaglevisionusa.com/

Calebration - Grateful Dead and Quicksilver Messenger Service ( ) The Grateful Dead perform "Easy Wind", "Candyman", "Casey Jones", "Brokedown Palace", and "Uncle John's Band". These performances were recorded live on August 30, 1970 at the KQED studios in San Francisco. Broadcast on local TV. When this was first broadcast, it was also simulcast on FM radio. Portions of these performances appear in the "Anthem To Beauty" video.

Winterland Arena, S.F. - Grateful Dead ( ) Television broadcast on KQED and quadraphonic simulcast on KQED-FM and KSAN-FM of the October 4, 1970 show. Winterland was located in San Francisco, at the intersection of Steiner and Post.

New Year's Eve, 1970 - Grateful Dead ( ) The first set of December 31, 1970 was broadcast on KQED and first four songs were simulcast on KSAN-FM.

Gimme Shelter (Albert Maysles, David Maysles, and Charlotte Zwerin, 1970) Garcia appears at Altamont getting off a helicopter. After the Jefferson Airplane segment, members of the band (Garcia, Lesh, and Weir) also appear, discussing the bad vibes and deciding not to perform at the concert.

Pop 2: Grateful Dead (ORTF) The performance by the Grateful Dead on June 21, 1971 on the back lawn at the Chateau d'Herouville, in Herouville, France, was filmed by ORTF. Portions of the concert were broadcast in two parts on the "Pop 2" program. Probably broadcast on July 24, 1971 were "(x) Black Peter (x)", "Hard To Handle", "(x) Sugar Magnolia", an interview with Jerry Garcia, and "Deal" (color footage). The Grateful Dead jammed with some French musicians in the recording studio located on the third floor. The owner of the chateau at this time was Michel Magne, an avant-garde musician and soundtrack composer.

Pop 2: Grateful Dead 2 (ORTF) The performance by the Grateful Dead on June 21, 1971 on the back lawn at the Chateau d'Herouville, in Herouville, France, was filmed by ORTF. Portions of the concert were broadcast in two parts on the "Pop 2" program. Probably broadcast on November 27, 1971 were "(x) Morning Dew" and "China Cat Sunflower > I Know You Rider" (black and white footage). The Grateful Dead jammed with some French musicians in the recording studio located on the third floor. The owner of the chateau at this time was Michel Magne, an avant-garde musician and soundtrack composer.

Last Days Of The Fillmore (directed by Richard T. Heffron, 1972) The Grateful Dead perform "Casey Jones" and "Johnny B. Goode". Garcia is shown on pedal steel, warming up with the New Riders of the Purple Sage.

Fillmore: The Last Days (Rhino / Bill Graham Memorial Foundation, 2009) The movie was released on DVD in 2009. It includes "Noodle" by Jerry Garcia, "Rehearsal Jam" by Jerry Garcia with New Riders Of The Purple Sage, and "Casey Jones" and "Johnny B. Goode" by the Grateful Dead.

The Grateful Dead (Robert Nelson, 2710 East Kenwood, Milwaukee, WI 53211) An approximately 10:15 minute long film of the Grateful Dead performing in 1967. The music is "New Potato Caboose" from the "Anthem Of The Sun" album, and with the "Alligator" from the album during the canoes sequence, and back to performance footage, with "Mountain Jam" > "Alligator" from the album. "Sitting On Top Of The World" and "Viola Lee Blues" from the first album are also used. Filmed some time in 1967. Shown in 1972.

TV From The Tivoli ( ) The April 17, 1972 show at the Tivoli Gardens in Copenhagen, Denmark was broadcast on television in Europe. This was re-broadcast in France in 1996, 1998, and 2000. Rosie McGee can be seen dancing during "One More Saturday Night".

Beat Club (Show 78, broadcast on May 27, 1972) The Grateful Dead performed "One More Saturday Night" and "Truckin'" on April 21, 1972 for this German TV show out of Bremen, West Germany. In the credits, Pigpen was listed as "Ron 'Pigpen' McKerney" and Keith Godchaux was listed as "Keith Godcheaux".

Grateful Dead From The Mars Hotel (Grateful Dead Records) A 30 second animated promo for the album. Shown on television in 1974. The promo is on 35mm film and was made by Spunbuggy, a firm in Los Angeles. The film has three different soundtracks available.

Sunshine Daydream (Canis Major) An unreleased movie, approximately 95 minutes long, mostly footage of the August 27, 1972 concert at Veneta, Oregon. The show was recorded on 16-track 2-inch reel to reel tape and on 16 millimeter color negative film. Other footage includes preparation for the concert and Merry Prankster footage of Acid Tests and their bus trips (including Neal Cassady). Filming, directing, and editing contributors include: Phil De Guere, John Norris, Sam Field, Lou Melson, Charlie Barreca, and Far West Action Picture Services (a Merry Prankster group). (Note: Reportedly, this video has been sold via mail order by one of the Pranksters.) The movie was shown on October 26, 2001, at The Fillmore, as part of The TriChromes show there. The movie was premiered at the Makor theater (35 West 67th Street, New York City) on August 17, 2002. The movie was shown on August 1, 2013 as the third "Get Together at the Movies" event.

Sunshine Daydream (Grateful Dead Productions VHS) A VHS release of the "Sunshine Daydream" movie. To be released.

Sunshine Daydream "Not For Sale" (Canis Major) This unofficial version of the movie contains additional footage at the start in which Ken Babbs portrays a business man who plans to close down the Springfield Creamery; the only way to save the creamery is to have the Grateful Dead perform at a concert. An "alternate view" of "I Know You Rider" is included at the end. The soundtrack is synched to the film footage.

Sunshine Daydream (Grateful Dead Productions / Rhino) A three CD and one DVD release of the "Sunshine Daydream" movie released on September 17, 2013. The movie was shown in theaters on August 1, 2013 at the third "Meet Up At The Movies" event. The three CDs contain the August 27, 1972 concert at Veneta, Oregon. The film was synched to the 16 track soundboard recording; at times the synch is off slightly. The footage at the start in which Ken Babbs portrays a business man who plans to close down the Springfield Creamery does not appear in the movie. Other short segments have also been edited out. The animation during "Dark Star" was changed and is based on Hubble space telescope images.

Sunshine Daydream (Grateful Dead Productions / Rhino) A three CD and one BluRay disc release of the "Sunshine Daydream" movie released on September 17, 2013. The CDs contain the August 27, 1972 concert at Veneta, Oregon.

Sunshine Daydream (Grateful Dead Productions / Rhino) The music from the August 27, 1972 concert at Veneta, Oregon was released on four 180 gram vinyl records.

I Believe (KPIX) In 1976, Jerry Garcia was interviewed by Father Miles Riley on this one half hour long San Francisco-based religious television program. The recording date may have been January 24, 1976.

The Grateful Dead Movie - Grateful Dead (Round Reels) Their very own movie, released on June 1, 1977. It was filmed during the October 16, 17, 18, 19, and 20, 1974 shows at the Winterland Arena. It is 131 minutes long. Mickey Hart played only during the second and thirds sets and the encore on the 20th. During the 'flashback' scenes, studio versions of "St. Stephen", "Ripple", and "Golden Road (To Unlimited Devotion)" were played. The "It Must Have Been The Roses" played during the closing credits is also probably a studio version. "Casey Jones" is from the 17th. "Going Down The Road Feeling Bad", "U.S. Blues" and "Morning Dew" are from the 18th (Bill Kreutzmann is wearing a long-sleeve black button-up collared shirt in all three songs). "One More Saturday Night" is probably from the 18th, as the length in the movie matches the timing in DeadBase. "Eyes Of The World" and "Truckin'" are from either the 16th or 19th. "Sugar Magnolia" is probably from the 17th ("Sugar Magnolia" and "Sunshine Daydream" are together). "Playing In The Band" is from the 16th (no Mickey Hart). The scratch seen during "Playing In The Band" occurred in the camera; this was digitally removed in the DVD release. "Stella Blue" is from the 17th or the 20th. "Johnny B. Goode" is from the 20th (Mickey Hart is introduced). The film release begins with an opening animation sequence by Gary Gutierrez and has a short history of the Grateful Dead sequence during the middle of the movie. The movie includes parts or all of: "U. S. Blues", "Going Down The Road", "Eyes Of The World", "St. Stephen" (studio version), "The Golden Road (To Unlimited Devotion)" (studio version), "Stella Blue", "Morning Dew", "Late For Supper", "The Wheel", "One More Saturday Night", "Trucking", "Sugar Magnolia", "Ripple" (studio version), "Playing In The Band", "Casey Jones", "It Must Have Been the Roses" (probably a studio version), "Johnny B. Goode", and "Eep Hour". Ned Lagin, who performed during all five shows, is noticeably absent from the film. The movie was filmed on 16mm film, which produced a 4:3 negative. These prints were then cut and blown up to provide the master 35mm negative, resulting in the 1.85:1 theatrical print. The movie was released as eight reels of theatrical prints. When the movie was pulled from theaters, these reels, some intact, some damaged, and some missing, were returned to the Vault. In the movie, many of the audience shots shown during songs were not filmed during those songs. Similarly, some of the band close-ups shown during songs were not filmed during those songs. Many of the vocals were overdubbed for the movie, often erasing the audience tracks.

The Grateful Dead Movie - Grateful Dead (Image ID 7346 GD) This is a release on laser disc. It is in matted letterbox format (1.66 to 1 aspect ratio), with a stereo digital audio soundtrack. The first side is in CAV, permitting Gary Gutierrez's animation to be scanned frame by frame. Sides 2 and 3 are in CLV.

The Grateful Dead Movie - Grateful Dead (Grateful Dead 5001VHS) A VHS video tape release of the movie. Released on April 25, 1989. The movie was filmed on 16mm film, which produced a 4:3 negative. These prints were then cut and blown up to provide the master 35mm negative, resulting in the 1.85:1 aspect ratio theatrical print. A "mediocre" quality 35mm theatrical release print was used to create the VHS release. For the VHS release, the film was cropped on the left and right sides, and also inexplicably cropped on the top and bottom, and not properly color corrected.

The Grateful Dead Movie - Grateful Dead ( ) In 1999, the movie has been revamped for DVD with extra footage and extra tunes.

The Grateful Dead Movie: Extended 2 DVD Version - Grateful Dead (Monterey Home Video, November 9, 2004) A two DVD release of the film, with bonus material including: 90 minutes of previously unseen concert footage including "Uncle John's Band", "Sugaree", "The Other One" > "Spanish Jam" >" Mind Left Body Jam" > "The Other One", "Scarlet Begonias", "China Cat Sunflower" > "I Know You Rider", "Dark Star", and "Weather Report Suite"; the making of "The Grateful Dead Movie"; the making of the animated Opening Sequence with Gary Gutierrez; the making of the DVD; the 1974 television commercial for the

"From The Mars Hotel" album; interviews with Bob Weir, Bill Kreutzmann, Donna Jean Godchaux, and Steve Parish; a photo gallery; and a 24 page booklet with photos and essay by Dennis McNally. The movie was transferred from the original 35mm film negatives and is presented in a 1.77:1 widescreen ratio. It includes several mixes: a Dolby Digital 5.1 presentation of the original movie theater audio mix; a Dolby Digital 5.1 audio mix taken from the master multi-track tapes; and a Dolby Digital 2.0 audio mix taken the master multi-track tapes. Disc One is 132 minutes long and Disc Two is 175 minutes long. Pre-orders placed prior to 3 p.m. on November 5, 2004 received a six inch strip of 35mm film taken from one of the damaged or incomplete theatrical prints that reside in the Vault. The performances seen in the movie were filmed on 16mm film, which produced a 4:3 negative. These were then cut and blown up to provide the master 35mm negative, resulting in 1.85:1 widescreen theatrical print. The movie was released as eight reels of theatrical prints. During production of the DVD release, the original 35mm film negatives were found to have some damage along the right side frame edge. Since the 35mm film was being transferred in HD (which has a 1.78:1 aspect ratio), the damaged right edge of the original 35mm negative was cropped from the 1.85:1 to the 1.78:1, which was a small but an almost unnoticeable loss of the original image. The resulting DVD is an almost exact copy of the theatrical release. On Disc One, after viewing the last chapter and the credits, the "AM" at the center of the "handlebars" becomes activated; selecting it bring up a short Jerry Garcia interview. On Disc Two, in the documentaries section, after viewing the making of the DVD, Garcia's guitar becomes highlighted; selecting that brings up a short Jerry Garcia interview. On Disc Two, in the "From The Mars Hotel" commercials selection, after first viewing the "Mix 3", an option becomes available above "Mix 1"; selecting that brings up a short interview with Donna Jean Godchaux and Bill Kreutzmann. During one of the Jerry Garcia interview segments, the image of the woman sitting next to Garcia was scrambled as her identity was not known and no release was available. The dancer during the animated skeleton was also scrambled for similar reasons. The scratch, seen in the original theatrical movie release during "Playing In The Band" occurred in the camera; this was digitally removed in the DVD release. Both "Eyes Of The World" and "Casey Jones" were missing small portions. The RIAA certified the video as "Gold", as "Platinum", and as double "Platinum" on February 21, 2005.

A Look Back - var. (Grateful Dead Productions, 2004) A promotional CD for "The Grateful Dead Movie". It includes interviews with band members and other persons involved with the re-release project.

Soundtrack (BBC, 2002) This tentatively titled series about songwriters includes a mid-2000 interview with Robert Hunter at a Nashville hotel with a guitar shaped swimming pool. Hunter performed "Box Of Rain" and "Alligator". When asked about the process of writing, Hunter described just getting this stuff from 'out there' as if he didn't really have much to do with the process. Shortly after saying this, Hunter stopped talking, looked thoughtful, and asked for a pen - inspiration strikes again! Still filming, the BBC just might have captured "the" moment when Hunter first came up with a classic song.

The Cockettes (2002) This film, directed by David Weissman and Bill Weber, includes a short segment of the Grateful Dead playing on Haight Street in San Francisco in 1968.

Grateful Dead - The Closing of Winterland - var. (Monterey Video, November 11, 2003) A two DVD release with 6 and 1/2 hours of footage, the Grateful Dead, a 24 page booklet, and other bonus material. It was made from the two inch Quad video master. Oddly, the release date was on a federal holiday, and mail orders, scheduled to be delivered on the release date, could not be delivered. Pre-orders placed with Grateful Dead Merchandising received a limited edition "New Year's Eve At Winterland" CD with selections from various New Year's Eve shows at Winterland. The DVD contains numerous (at least eight) "Easter eggs". On the bonus DVD, Bill Graham talks about a fan climbing to an unsafe position during the December 31, 1972 show. This is also discussed by Bob Weir in a different segment. According to some sources, the release date was November 18, 2003. Jerry Garcia's guitar track was played through one of Garcia's vintage Fender amplifiers and then recorded, providing two tracks for a better mix. Bob Weir and Keith Godchaux were similarly re-recorded. The conversation with Bob Weir, Mickey Hart, and Ken Kesey took place between the first and second sets, at around 2 o'clock in the morning. The "Dead Heads" interview segment with Dick Latvala, before he joined "the Vault", was provided from the raw news footage by Frank Zamacoma. The approximate seven minutes of "tuning" between "Fire On The Mountain" and "Me And My Uncle" were edited down to about one minute long. The split screen effect used the footage from the main program along with footage from the isolated cameras. The audio tapes were "baked" prior to use, due to the inherent problems with the Ampex 456 tape stock produced in the mid 1970's. The RIAA certified the video as "Gold", as "Platinum", and as double "Platinum" on December 15, 2003.

60 Minutes II - CBS News (November 12, 2003) The final segment on the program was "Reviving 'The Dead'", about the post-Garcia travails of the remaining band members. Featured were Lesh, Weir, Hart, and Kreutzmann playing an acoustic "Friend Of The Devil" in front of 710 Ashbury Street, interviews by Charlie Rose, the four band members demonstrating how jams and transitions develop, plus scenes from concerts, including the taper section at Merriweather Post Pavilion. http://www.cbsnews.com/sections/60II/main3475.shtml and http://www.cbsnews.com/stories/2003/11/11/60II/main582848.shtml contains transcripts, streaming video, etc. The acoustic performance took place prior to September 10, 2003. The four members also played "Ripple", but that was not aired.

You Can't Take It With You - BBC2 (November 18, 2003, broadcast at 22:00) This segment of the 30 minutes long program examines the state of Jerry Garcia's estate.

In the history of recorded sound, many formats have been used: wax cylinders, 78 rpm records, 45 rpm records (in mono and stereo), 33 1/3 rpm records (in mono, stereo, CD-4, QS, and SQ Martix), reel-to-reel tape (in mono, stereo and four track), eight track tape, cassette, CD, DAT, DCC, MD, DVD-A, SACD, DVD and Blu-ray among them. Some never have become popular, some have disappeared from popular usage, and some are still with us. Many of the earliest recordings listed here were originally released on the 33 1/3 revolutions per minute long playing record format, and I have used that to list the catalog numbers in this discography. Where there are differences, I have included other formats. In particular, this applies to CDs, which often include new or additional material not available on the records, and to cassettes, which sometimes are the only other format, besides CD, being presently used to release material. In many cases, material is only being released on CDs. I have tried to be thorough, but ...

Foreword

The Pages of Our Nights

In the book of love's own dream
Where all the print is blood
Where all the pages are my days

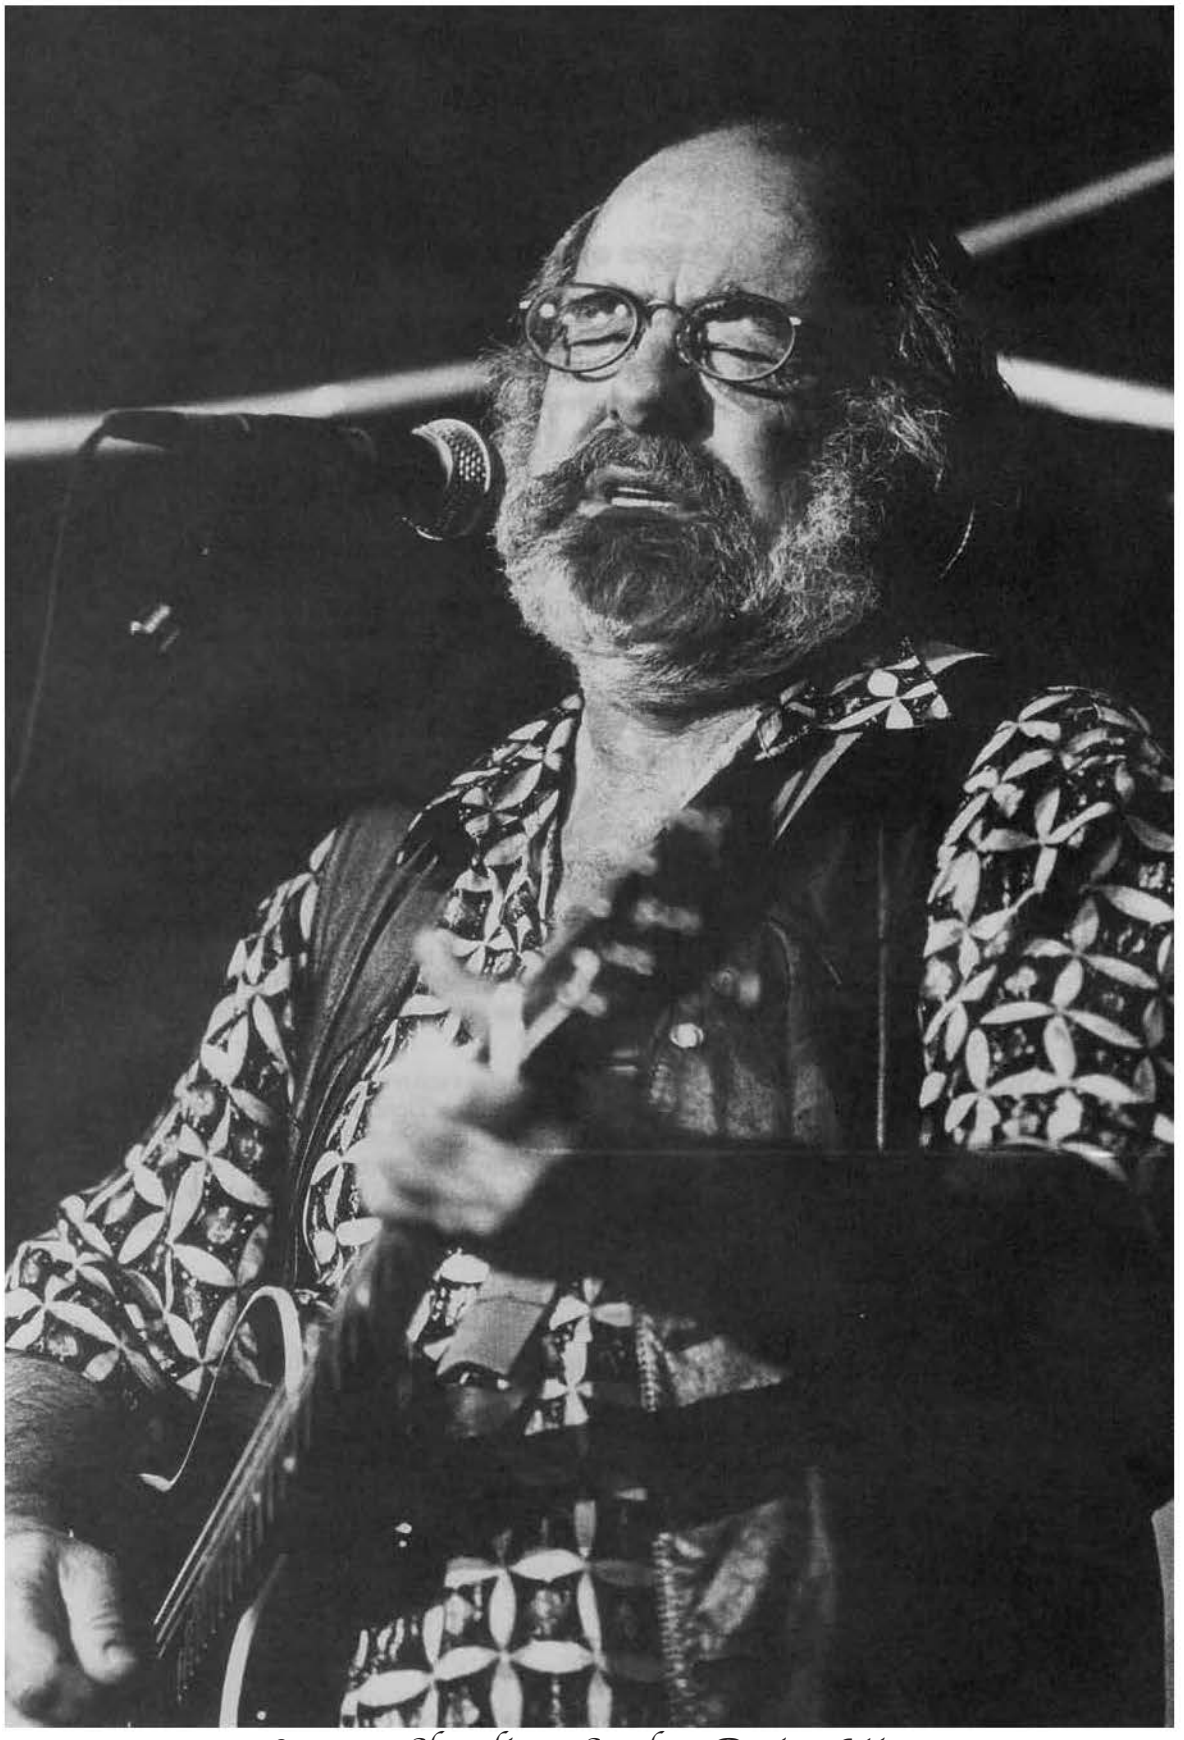
- Hunter

An ocean of wisdom fed by rivers of scholarship, DeadBase is as much a testament to the mountain-moving power of collaboration as the Dead's music itself. By giving everyone a map to the treasures buried in the taped record of the Dead's pursuit of their restless muse, DeadBase gave Deadheads a key to one another.

How many friendships began with an exchange of goodies sparked by a discovery in this book? How many late-night debates in a haze of good smoke find resolution in these pages?

Here the immense expanse of creativity and improvisation is shown to have a definite shape-in-time — as if a mountain too vast to be seen was brought into focus. Here the trails to the peaks are blazed for personal and collective exploration. Other chroniclers, and other bands, will follow; but the Dead and DeadBase pointed the way.

As a detailed account of the creative odyssey of the most-recorded human beings who ever lived, DeadBase would be an Information Age milestone even if it wasn't about the Dead. Because it is about the Dead, there's poetry in the data.



The dust of Neal Cassady's jalopy blows past the venues that are given their place in history here, in all the towns and cities the Dead lit up on the map. Behind the statistics there's an epic of changing America, from the flash of Love Circuses and Be-ins to the benefits for the rainforests and Rex — of young musicians hitching a ride on a crest of inspiration that carried them from Magoo's Pizza Parlor to the foot of the Great Pyramid, and all the arenas and stadiums in between.

If you gave your heart to this music, your story is here, in the tour adventures recalled as you daydream through these setlists.

If you never saw a single show, this helpful tool will guide you to the music your soul is hungry for.

See through the ink and paper (or letters on a screen) to the joy this book was born in. Imagine being in the Big Room again, the air charged with the electricity of the approaching storm. Feel your sisters and brothers around you in that place so many roads led to — the magic that stayed near, changing as we changed, for 30 years; the living mystery that casts its shadow in the lines of this book.

Welcome to DeadBase XI!

This new edition still contains the most complete and accurate listing of Grateful Dead concerts and song lists known, plus several new features. Many of the lists appear here for the first time, the result of original research conducted by the authors and their collaborators. Library research, personal interviews, recordings, files of newspaper clippings and similar evidence yielded much valuable information. The DeadBase archive has been compiled over many years with the help of many people, including the tape vault archivists for the Grateful Dead.

DeadBase is much more than the master list of dates and songs: it is a complex database-management system capable of performing such functions as identifying all shows where a given song, or a grouping of songs, was played, or analyzing the evolution of patterns of songs played over the years. This software allows one to view the data in many exciting and revealing ways; we have chosen several views for our various chapters.

Some of the sections of this book are complex, and many of the features are not intuitively obvious. Due to design and space considerations we have chosen to explain many of the intricacies in this introduction.

Song Lists

This book has several parts. The first section chronicles the 2,314 shows and 36,534 songs in the DeadBase archive. We have erred on the side of caution, requiring more than a tape label to certify a song list, and have disproved many lists and dates commonly associated with some tapes from the sixties. Many of these inaccurate lists are discussed in the explanations section that follows this introduction.

Most features of the song lists are self-evident. Titles have been shortened in the interest of space; while we have used common abbreviations, the full titles can be found in the Songs Played section of this book. Any date with asterisks surrounding the "location," such as album release dates and other significant events, is not considered to be a show and has not been figured into the statistics. A "@" above a song indicates Bob on acoustic guitar.

The comment lines contain several types of information such as the identification of additional artists and other noteworthy events at the show. Significant song occurrences are indicated as follows: "first 'Bird Song'" or "last 'Truckin': 09-28-75 [77]." The figure within the square brackets indicates the number of shows since the song was last played. Songs that have not been played again since a given show have been noted as the "final" version. Note that as song lists become less complete prior to 1972, the significant song occurrences are less accurate.

Although it was a matter of some debate, we decided to retain the two-column format from DeadBase XI. The smaller type, though somewhat harder to read, allows more lists on a page making it easier to locate shows, and saves 90 pages which we have put to good use. As a compromise, we have increased the font size slightly, and have paid greater attention to the format: increasing the leading, and preventing most songs from being split across lines.

Songs Played

The first line of a citation lists our title for the song, its four-character abbreviation, the number of times it has been played, and the first- and last-time played dates. The second line identifies the "official" name for the song (or, if in quotes, a common nickname) and its author. Finally follows a list of those who have recorded the song. See back issues of Golden Road for more information regarding the authors of many of the Grateful Dead's cover songs.

Discography

This is a compilation from several sources, resulting in a collection of Grateful Dead appearances on records, film and in literature.

Table

This table shows the number of times that each song was played each year from 1966 to 1995. The Total column counts occurrences from 1965 to 1995. Songs that were played fewer than four times are not included.

Statistics

These yearly statistics include the number of shows, songs, different songs, songs per show, and lists of the most- to least-commonly played songs. There are also extensive statistics on sets for the years 1970 through 1995. (Note that if the drum solo is preceded by a jam, the song before the jam is also counted in the Songs Into The Drums category. Likewise, if the drum solo is followed by a jam, the song after the jam is also counted in the Songs Out Of The Drums category.) The States Played list is at the end of the next chapter.

Played/Not Played

This is a list of songs that were played in a given year, but not in the previous or subsequent years, providing an interesting perspective on the Grateful Dead's ever-changing repertoire. The States Played list has been appended as filler.

Every Time Played

Since we introduced the complete version in DeadBase III, this has become a favorite section for many readers. These are lists of every time that each song was played, and can be particularly helpful in determining to which show a given song list might belong.

Places Played

This list indicates the number of times that states and cities were played along with every date played for each arena.

Feedback Revisited

In order to make room for GarciaBase and WeirBase we did not include our customary surveys in this edition. Instead we have distilled some of the most useful information: the favorite tapes from DeadBase X, and a compilation of all the different songs we have polled favorite versions of, dating back to DeadBase VI. This is the first time that all these songs have been included in one edition.

If we continue to publish after this edition, future surveys will be compiled from our website at www.deadbase.com.

Reviews

In order to add another dimension to our presentation of the song lists, we solicited reviews and commentary from a variety of people. We did not place any restrictions on the reviews; they could be of any reasonable length and in any format. We were most interested in the quality of the music at a given show, but welcomed live observations that would provide interesting color and might lead to insights on the music. Suggested topics included particular songs, an individual's performance, the atmosphere at the show, personal experiences, the quality of available tapes, the debut of a new song and even x-chemistry. As a result, the commentary is handled with a wide and interesting range of approaches. In this edition we are pleased to include some excerpts from Tom Constanten's "musical autobiodyssey:" Between Rock And Hard Places. These vignettes provide a different perspective from any previously offered, and we are grateful for Tom's kind permission.

GarciaBase

We are happy to include the return of solo lists in DeadBase XI. In addition to Jerry's solo song lists, we have also included a Songs Played section, and for the first time, an Every Time Played List and Feedback results. This survey was conducted on our website, where we expect to continue polling Deadheads. You can find us at www.deadbase.com.

WeirBase

Following too long an absence, Weir's solo efforts are back. In addition to his solo song lists, we have also included for the first time a Songs Played section, and an Every Time Played List.

Photographs

Again we present an album of images; this time it is of the dead scene since the band retired in 1995. We have featured events such as the Furthur Festivals, Phil & Friends, and other events of interest to Deadheads.

We intend to start focusing on other years, and welcome photographs of the band, venues, and Dead scene, particularly from 1987 and 1977. We are interested in covering as many shows from as many perspectives as possible in similar supplements for DeadBase XII and beyond. Photographs may be any size (snapshots are useful), but should be clear. Please include the date and your name on the back of each photo.

Rob Cohn, who contributed a majority of this eidition's photographs, is liscenced by the Grateful Dead. His work is for sale by writing to: Dead Images, P. O. Box 5112, Lexington, NC 27293-5112. Or visit him at http://www.deadimages.com/.

Furthur Feedback

This survey of the three Furthur Festivals was conducted on our web site.

The Other Ones

As they may have disbanded, we present the "complete" Other Ones lists here. We have also included reviews of their concerts culled from our web site. We hope to have to eat our type and add to their small but dense canon soon.

Phil & Friends

At the time DeadBase XI goes to press, this chimerical band is still gaining steam. They will certainly be exciting to track in the future; we have given it our best first effort here.

Odds & Ends

This is an eclectic collection of lists and facts about the Grateful Dead that did not belong in any of the previous sections. As an entertaining sidelight, we have included anagrams derived from words pertaining to Grateful Dead culture. These anagrams were initially produced by a software package called Ars Magna, which yields combinations of words. "Grateful Dead" produced 1,968 such combinations, Eyes Of The World: 25,717, and Scarlet Begonias: 336,854. We have chosen those that we found most meaningful or interesting. Also included is an index our four-character abbreviations.

Gone, But Not Forgotten

DeadBase has grown too large, and it has become necessary to rotate some features. FeedBack, Deadhead Survey, Arena Survey, Seating Charts, Lyrical Images, and Last Time Played have temporarily disappeared. If we continue to publish, they may well reappear either in LiveBase, or at the expense of other chapters in DeadBase XII.

Explanations - Confusing song titles, cancelled shows and mislabelled tapes

During the course of our research we have run across many corrections and clarifications to our previous base of Grateful Dead information. We would like to share some of the explanations regarding song titles and concert dates and locations that are sometimes confusing or misunderstood.

Willy Legate of the Grateful Dead Archives kindly informed us that although the title was copyrighted as Brown-eyed Woman (that's how it appears on the album and/or songbook), Robert Hunter actually wrote and intended it to be Brown-eyed Women, the way Jerry Garcia really sings it. This is a classic case of a typographical error. Legate also described some possible confusion relating to the spellings of Cosmic Charley and Mr. Charlie.

An interesting story has been circulating regarding the suite of music on Anthem of the Sun called That's It for the Other One. We understand that originally there was just one title for the entire piece, but later additional titles were added for copyright and royalty purposes. However, when the songbook came out there was a mistake that further confused matters. There were two parts that had lyrics associated with them: the "you know he had to die" part that Garcia sings, and the "Spanish Lady" part that Weir sings. The title that appeared above the "he had to die" section was That's It for the Other One with Bob Weir as author, and the title above the "Spanish Lady" section was Cryptical Envelopment with Jerry Garcia as the author. After talking with several people who confirmed that the two titles were somehow switched, it was clear that Weir wrote the part that he sings and Garcia wrote the part that he sings. And to make matters even more confusing, Willy Legate told us that in fact the title of Weir's part is Quodlibet For Tenderfeet. We have chosen to reserve the use of That's It for the Other One for the entire suite, and for the purposes of songlists here in DeadBase will use The Other One to refer to Bob Weir's verses and Cryptical Envelopment to denote Jerry Garcia's verses. This is probably the most common system used by Deadheads and tape collectors.

Our choice of abbreviated song titles has been the subject of some lively discussion over the last several months. Some people have expressed strong opinions on titles that differ from those we have chosen to use in the body of song lists. Other people have expressed equally strong preference for the titles that we have employed. To some degree our choices were arbitrary and subject to change. The three of us did not always agree with each other, and many of our decisions were reached over a dissenting vote. One such debate was on the use of Pretty Peggy-O vs. Fennario. While we have seen the use of both titles on records and in print, we have chosen to continue using Peggy-O even though some band members even refer to it as Fennario.

An even more heated debate centers around Aiko Aiko and Iko Iko. In our first edition we used the "Aiko" spelling as a gesture toward Deadhead culture and uniqueness. Although this still seems appealing for several subjective reasons, we have now decided to change to Iko Iko, primarily due to the widespread use of this spelling on albums of other musicians, including the Dixiecups, the Neville Brothers, Dr. John and Warren Zevon.

Heaven Help Jam has been renamed Mind Left Body Jam in reference to Your Mind Has Left Your Body from Baron Von Tollbooth and the Chrome Nun. We would be interested in corroboration for this source, or in other possible origins for this theme.

We have chosen to rename any Dark Star where the lyrics were never sung as Dark Star Jam. While some of these versions (such as 06-23-74) are extended and complete in every other respect, we felt that it was useful to be able to distinguish these in the Every Time Played section. There may be other non-vocal Dark Stars that have not yet been renamed.

We are now listing Playin Reprise for those instances where the main body of the song was not sung at the show.

We now use Drums to indicate drum solos prior to 04-06-78. Drumz denotes subsequent drum solos and includes Space, freeform music often beginning with a guitar duet that usually (but not always) follows the drum solo these days. Our use of arrows between songs has also been another topic of discussion. We have chosen to include an arrow when there is less than a three-second pause between songs. This is a compromise between those that favor no pauses (such that only transitions like those between Scarlet> Fire would be recognized with arrows) and those that favor a more liberal use of arrows (any time there is no tuning between songs). The three-second rule seems consistent with the pauses sometimes seen within songs such as Samson or Sugar Magnolia. This consensus is also subject to change, and we are considering the use of single arrows versus double arrows for future editions.

Cancelled Shows:

06-19, 20-65 Frenchy's, Hayward, Ca.

02-10-66 The Cabale, Berkeley, Ca.

02-11-66 Fillmore Auditorium, San Francisco, Ca.

05-xx-66 Rendezvous Inn, San Francisco, Ca. — the Dead were originally scheduled to play every Monday night of May and June.

08-07-66 Fillmore Auditorium: Children's Adventure Day Camp benefit. The Dead are listed on the poster, but did not perform.

10-07-08-66 Winterland — these shows were moved to the Fillmore Auditorium.

10-28-66 St. Mary's College, Moraga, Ca.

10-29-66 Santa Clara, Ca.

10-31-66 Acid Test Graduation — Alliope Warehouse, San Francisco, Ca.

12-12-66 San Francisco Civic Auditorium — the Dead were supposed to open for the Beach Boys, but the Airplane got the job instead.

03-24-68 Fountain Church, Grand Rapids, Mi. — cancelled.

06-12, 13-68 Paradise Theater, Staten Island, N.Y.

07-12-69 Central Park, New York, N.Y.

07-25 -> 27-69 Exhibit Hall, Honolulu, Hi.

08-05 -> 07-69 Fillmore West, San Francisco, Ca. — the Dead's name actually made it onto the poster, which David Singer had to remove at the last moment.

10-05-69 Sam Houston Coliseum, Houston, Tx. — Jefferson Airplane, Grateful Dead, the Byrds, Poco, and Glenn McKay's Head Lightswere scheduled to perform. The Dead did not perform — the others may have.

12-06-69 Altamont Speedway, Ca. — the Dead were supposed to play following the Rolling Stones but after Marty Balin was punched-out it was thought best to bring things to a close as quickly as possible.

12-06-69 Fillmore West, San Francisco, Ca. — cancelled due to Altamont stabbing.

01-25, 26-70 Honolulu, Hi.

02-01-70 Fox Theater, St. Louis, Mo. — played the bust fund benefit at the Warehouse in New Orleans instead.

03-16-70 Apparently the Kleinhans Music Hall gig was originally scheduled for the 16th. It took place the following night.

03-18-70 Capitol Theater, Portchester, N.Y.

05-19-70 Washington University, St. Louis, Mo. — cancelled, if ever scheduled.

05-28-70 The Strand Lyceum, London, England - actually took place on the 25th.

06-19-70 Mid South Coliseum, Memphis, Tn.

The following six shows were on Tom Donohue's Medicine Ball Caravan, which the Dead backed out of at the last minute:

08-04-70 Virginia City, Nv.

08-06-70 Albuquerque, N.M.

08-09-70 Denver, Co.

08-11-70 Omaha, Nb.

08-14-70 Bloomington, In.

08-20-70 Wheeling, W.V.

10-10-70 Paterson State College — changed to Queens College.

11-15-70 Washington Ave. Armory, Albany, N.Y. — the opening acts, Buddy Miles and Pacific Gas & Electric, performed as scheduled, but the Dead left without playing due to two bomb threats.

12-24-70 City Center, New York, N.Y. — not possible with Winterland the night before.

05-28, 29-71 Winterland, San Francisco — moved to the 29th and 30th because Garcia got sick. This is why the band only played one set on the 29th. Apparently a show was booked for the 31st but didn't take place.

01-19 -> 21-72 Marin County Veterans' Auditorium, San Rafael, Ca.

04-15-72 Copenhagen

05-05-72 Lille Opera House, Lille, France — the equipment truck couldn't make it. The audience was so upset that the Dead barely escaped with their lives.

12-10 -> 12-72 Winterland Arena, San Francisco, Ca. — the Allman Brothers were supposed to play these gigs, but Berry Oakley died. The Grateful Dead played with other opening acts.

03-17, 18-73 Nassau Coliseum, Uniondale, N.Y.

05-22, 23-73 Cow Palace, Daly City, Ca. — cancelled in favor of one day at Kezar on the 26th.

05-27-73 Ontario Speedway, Ontario, Canada

06-02, 03-73 Memorial Auditorium, Kansas City, Mo.

07-20-73 Duke University, Durham, N.C.

07-30-73 Roosevelt Stadium, Jersey City, N.J.

09-14-73 Providence Civic Center — Phil was sick.

10-17-73 Ft. Worth, Tx.

07-04-74 Titan Stadium, Oshkosh, Wi.

08-02-74 Roosevelt Stadium, Jersey City, N.J. — rained out, moved to August 6. The audience was so upset that they rushed the stage.

09-16-74 Amsterdam, The Netherlands

09-18-74 Arles, France — played Dijon instead.

09-22-74 Palais Des Sportes, Paris, France

06-30, 07-01-76 Syria Mosque, Pittsburgh, Pa. — cancelled, supposedly so the band could play Roosevelt Stadium instead. They didn't play Roosevelt until August 4th. When Pittsburgh was blown off, one more night was added to the Chicago shows.

04-23-78 Knoxville, Tn.

05-03-78 Portland, Me. or New York City

05-07-78 Albany, N.Y. — played Troy, N.Y. instead.

05-18-78 Uptown Theatre, Chicago, Il. — the third night in Chicago was cancelled. The reason given at the time was that Billy was exhausted. This started rumors that he was leaving the band.

06-18-78 Oakland Stadium. — the Dead were to have played a "Day on the Green" with Steve Miller and Bob Seger. The whole show was cancelled.

07-02-78 Summerfest Fairgrounds, Milwaukee, Wi. — rained out.

08-25 -> 27-78 Red Rocks — rescheduled: 30th & 31st.

08-31-78 Vancouver, B.C., Canada

09-04-78 Cornell University — backstage passes exist.

09-13 -> 15-78 Gizah Sound & Light Theater, Cairo, Egypt — played on the 14th, 15th, and 16th instead.

09-30-78 Antwerp, Belgium

10-02-78 The Hague, The Netherlands

10-04-78 Munich, West Germany

10-06, 07-78 Paris, France

10-09-78 Hamburg, West Germany

10-10-78 Frankfurt, West Germany

10-11-78 Essen, West Germany

10-13-78 Glasgow, Scotland

10-14-78 Stafford, England

10-16, 17-78 London, England — when the Europe tour was cancelled the London shows were rescheduled for 09-29-30 and 10-10, but even those were eventually cancelled.

10-01-78 Greek Theatre, U. of California, Berkeley, Ca. — Chet Helms held his Tribal Stomp at the Greek Theatre, and while the Dead were widely rumored to be playing, they didn't. However, it was reported in the papers the next day that Phil Lesh had played bass with Lee Michaels. What no one seemed to notice was that this Lesh lookalike was actually playing guitar.

11-25-78 New Haven Coliseum, New Haven, Ct. — cancelled due to Jerry's throat condition.

11-27, 28-78 The Spectrum, Philadelphia, Pa. — rescheduled due to Jerry's throat condition for 01-05-79 and 01-12-79.

11-30, 12-01-78 Madison Square Garden, New York, N.Y. — rescheduled due to Jerry's throat condition for 01-07-79 and 01-08-79.

12-30-78 San Francisco, Ca. — played L. A. instead.

08-13, 14-79 Red Rocks Amphitheatre — moved to McNichols Arena due to rain.

10-29-79 Capitol Theatre, Passaic, N.J.

12-13-79 Milwaukee Auditorium, Milwaukee, Wi. — backstage passes exist.

12-14-79 St. Paul Civic Center, St. Paul, Mn. — backstage passes exist.

03-29-80 Boston Garden, Boston, Ma.

04-01, 02-80 Capitol Theatre, Passaic, N.J. — rescheduled for 03-30, 31, 04-01-80

04-06, 07-80 Nassau Coliseum, Uniondale, N.Y.

10-15-81 Nancy, France — cancelled due to lack of ticket sales. The Dead played the OOPS concerts in Amsterdam instead.

10-16-81 Frejus, France — cancelled due to lack of ticket sales. The Dead played the OOPS concerts in Amsterdam instead.

11-27-81 Orangle Bowl, Miami, Fl. — scheduled with the Allman Brothers and The Outlaws.

09-08, 09-82 Saenger Performing Arts Center, New Orleans, La. — the Dead only played the 9th.

09-11-82 Tampa, Fl. — played W. Palm Beach instead.

09-12-82 Gainesville, FL. — played Lakeland instead.

05-11-83 Reno, Nv.

06-29-84 Songbird Center, Mansfield, Oh. — the Dead played Blossom Music Center instead.

07-06 -> 08-84 Peoria Civic Center, Peoria, Il.

07-07, 08-84 Alpine Valley Music Theatre— took place on the 6th and 7th.

06-08, 09-85 Cal Expo Amphitheatre, Sacremento, Ca. — these shows were cancelled so that Bob, Jerry and Phil could attend performances of Wagner's "Ring of the Nibelung" in San Francisco. This gave rise to rumors that the shows were cancelled so that the Dead could play a 20th anniversary free concert, either in Golden Gate Park or at the Haight Street Fair. This never took place, but rumors persisted through September.

Fall 1985 Portland, Or. and Tacoma, Wa.

11-27-85 Fillmore Auditorium, San Francisco, Ca. — all members of the Dead were present at Bill Graham's 20th anniversary party and equipment was brought for a set, but the Dead did not perform. One explanation making the rounds was that the Dead wanted to play at 10 PM but Graham wanted them to close the evening.

12-29-85 Oakland Coliseum — tickets were actually printed, but never went on sale. A number of them went into circulation a few months later.

04-11-86 Las Vegas, Nv.

04-13, 14-86 Irvine Meadows Amphitheatre, Laguna Hills, Ca.— played the 12th and 13th instead.

The following six stands of shows were cancelled due to Garcia's illness:

07-11 -> 13-86 Venura County Fairgrounds
07-19, 20-86 Shoreline Amphitheatre
08-06, 07-86 The Fox Theatre, St. Louis, Mo.
08-09-86 Sandstone Amph., Bonner Springs, Ks.
08-11 -> 13-86 Red Rocks Amphitheatre
08-15-86 Park West Ski Resort, Park West, Ut.
08-17-86 Boreal Ridge Ski Resort, Donner Summit, Ca.

07-11 -> 13-87 Greek — played 06-19, 20, 21 instead.

11-17, 18, 20, 21-87 Berkeley Community Theatre — Rex Foundation benefits.

05-??-88 The China tour

06-10 ->12-88 Ventura County Fairgrounds

06-17-88 Minneapolis, Mn. — they played Bloomington instead.

06-27-88 Pocono Downs, Pocono, Pa.

03-16 -> 18-89 Henry J. Kaiser — the neighbors refused. The Dead have not been back since.

08-18 -> 20-89 Greek Theatre — these shows were almost scrapped because the U.C. administration didn't want the Dead playing on orientation day. They finally relented and allowed the shows to be moved up a day to the 17th, 18th, and 19th. The Dead haven't been back since.

06-23, 24-90 Mommoth Mountain, Ca. — cancelled due to fire hazard.

08-31, 09-01, 02-90 Shoreline Amphitheatre — cancelled due to Brent's death.

08-22, 23-92 Oregon County Fair, Veneta, Or.

08-25 -> 27-92 Shoreline

09-09 -> 11-92 Capital Centre

09-13 -> 15-92 Spectrum

09-17 -> 19, 21 -> 23-92 M. S. G.

09-25 -> 27, 29 -> 30, 10-01-92 Boston

03-13-93 Richfield — cancelled due to snow storm.

04-03-94 Orlando — cancelled due to family illness.

07-03-95 Deer Creek — cancelled due to threats and crowd problems on the previous night.

Mislabelled Tapes:

Many Grateful Dead tapes, particularly from the early days, are not identified correctly. We have known people with large tape collections who had the same tape under two or sometimes three different dates. For this reason we feel that it is important to properly identify these mistakes so that people will know to what they are really listening.

12-4, 11, or 18-65: This tape is often labeled as being one of these three Acid Tests. It is actually from the Great Human Be-In on 01-14-67.

02-23-66: There is no evidence that the Dead played on this night. Tapes commonly listed with this date seem to match the first part of the song list for 5-19-66.

07-03-66: Many copies of this have four additional songs after Next Time You See Me. Stealin' and Don't Ease are from the Scorpio Records single. Lindy is from Historic Dead and Baby Blue is from Vintage Dead. This tape is also sometimes dated 09-04-66.

11-29-66: Tapes with this date are a mixture of at least two shows which may actually all be from the Matrix. The time frame of this material seems to span from January to December of 1966. Sometimes this tape shows up dated 02-23-66.

01-14-67: Tapes of the three songs the Dead performed at the Great Human Be-In often masquerade as various Acid Tests and other assorted gigs.

01-27-67: This tape, which is of uncertain origin, exists with this date, and also as 01-24-67, 01-28-67 and part of 02-12-67. We now have it listed as 09-04-67, which is also far from certain. The Dead apparently did not start to segue Alligator into Caution until that time.

02-12-67: Only Cold Rain and High-Heeled Sneakers are actually from this night. The other live material is the same as what is on the tape dated 01-27-67 or 01-28-67. Smokestack and King Bee are from a studio session later that year.

03-17-67: The list for 11-19-66 has been masquerading as this show on tapes recently. Some of the confusion may have arisen when this tape appeared at the same time as 03-18-67.

05-05-67: This tape is sometimes labeled as either Avalon Ballroom or Fillmore Auditorium with the same date. We have this show listed as 06-15-67 which is far from certain. June seems to be the month that the Dead premiered Alligator. This tape could not be from much later than that as Alligator stands alone.

09-03, 04-67: The Midnight Hour from Rio Nido sometimes appears dated 09-02-68, the real list of which can be found under that date.

11-8, 9, 10, 11-67: In November, 1967 the Dead played at the Shrine either two shows: 11-10-67 and 11-11-67 as we list in DeadBase, or four shows: 11-8-67, 11-9-67, 11-10-67 and 11-11-67. There are only two pieces of evidence to support the four-show theory: cassette tapes and a statement made by someone who visited the Warner Bros vault a few years ago and saw tapes with all four dates. The evidence for just two shows is stronger: there are only two dates (10th and 11th) on the poster for the shows and only two dates are on the Anthem of the Sun album cover. Another person who visited the Warner Bros vault found several tapes from those shows, took extensive notes and, again, found only the two dates. We also spoke with someone who was an eyewitness to the shows. He remembers only two shows. He is sure that if there had been other shows added he would have known about it and remembered it. He also said that in those days bands only played at the Shrine two nights — Friday and Saturday; no Wednesday or Thursday shows were ever played. So, although we are still open to changes, unless there is new information in the future we will stick with just the two shows.

03-03-68: Only one tape was made of the famous Haight Street performance; an audience. The gentleman who recorded this got only four songs before his batteries gave out, as he had also recorded Cream at Winterland the night before. Any tape with this date containing other songs is not correct. Also, this same person recalls that Dancin' in the Streets was, appropriately, the Dead's closing number.

03-07-68: This is actually 10-13-68.

06-06-68: This is actually 10-13-68.

09-02-68: This Midnight Hour is actually 09-03-67 or 09-04-67.

10-13-68: Let's see now, where do we start on this one? Here is at least a partial list of dates that this show has been labeled as: 03-07-68, 04-07-68, 06-06-68, 08-23-68, 08-24-68, 10-12-68, 10-22-68 and 06-07-69. Some tapes of the last named date contain a very speedy version of Dark Star and St. Stephen from 10-13-68 tacked onto The Eleven at normal speed from this actual show. The Morning Dew is actually from 01-14-67. Also, some copies of 10-13 have a Cold Rain with ONE drummer that's really from 02-12-67. (Come on, folks, why would Bill Graham be introducing the band at the AVALON?)

10-22-68: This is really 10-13-68.

12-??-68: This rehearsal tape is sometimes identified as "Fillmore West 11-06-68." Listen to it closely. What's obviously going on is that the rest of the band is teaching T. C. the material. Tom himself has corroborated this. As of November 6th he was still in the Air Force so that could not have been when this rehearsal took place. Plus, we've never heard of Fillmore West being used as a practice hall.

12-31-68: Tapes with this date are actually the first set of 05-03-69.

05-28-69: This tape is sometimes mislabeled as 05-11-69.

05-03-69: Audience tapes of the first set have been labeled in the past as 12-31-68 and 10-24 or 25-69.

06-07-69: Some copies have a Dark Star and St. Stephen that, once again, are really from 10-13-68.

06-22-69: The list in this book is correct. Some tapes with this date have the jam from 09-17-70 and parts of 04-03-70.

??-??-69: The "Straight Theatre 1969" tape is really the first show of 05-15-70.

07-12-69: Some audience tapes dated as 7-12 are actually a combination of the 12th and 13th. Careful comparison must be made with the soundboard of the 12th to determine where the splice takes place.

08-30-69: Sometimes mislabled as 08-29-69, 11-18-69, or 12-04-69.

09-26-69a: This list has been floating around for years labeled as either Central Park 07-14-69 or Fillmore East 10-69.

09-30-69: The Cafe-A-Go-Go tape is actually two different shows. From Looney Tunes on is actually one of these nights. Everything before that is really 06-22-69 in a different order.

10-24 or 25-69: This is really the first set of 05-03-69.

12-05-69: Tapes of this night are commonly labeled 12-06. The Dead were scheduled to play the 6th but did not because of Altamont. Also keep in mind that our lists for 12-04, 05 and 07 are absolutely correct and that no other tapes should be mistaken for any of these.

12-19-69: Sometimes labeled as 12-04.

03-20-70a: The soundcheck sometimes gets tacked on to the end of 03-21-70b with no explanation.

03-21-70a: There is a school of thought that tapes with this date are actually 06-24-70a and that tapes labeled 06-24-70a are of unknown origin. However our eyewitness reviews of both nights prove otherwise.

04-12-80: Sometimes parts of this are labeled 04-09 or 07-10.

04-30-70: Actually 04-03-70.

05-15-70a: This show has been mistakenly identified as Straight Theater '69, 12-23-70 and probably others.

06-12,13-70: The Dead and Quicksilver did play Honolulu Civic on these dates. John Cipollina and Dino Valenti, may they rest in peace, must have been playing a joke on Mike D. when they claimed otherwise.

06-24-70: There were two shows that night. The Alligator jam is from the first show, the Dark Star from the second. The tape of the first show went around for years as 06-25-70. Also, parts of both jams were combined and labeled as 07-11-70.

07-10-70: Actually 04-12-70. This often gets confused with 04-09-70, as the two shows often appear on the same tape.

07-11-12-70: The dates have apparently been switched in the past.

08-05-70: These acoustic sets sometimes get tacked on to the beginning of 01-10-70. We have also seen these sets labeled 1969.

09-17-70: This has masqueraded as 06-22-69 and various other shows.

09-20-70: This was intentionally rearranged and mislabeled as 09-25-70. It has also been labeled as 02-02-70. Big Boy Pete from this show has sometimes been identified as "King's Beach Bowl '68."

10-24-70: Sometimes mislabeled as the 25th.

10-27-70: Actually 11-29-70.

11-06-70: The list in this book is correct, based on a master audience tape.

11-09-70: The list in this book is correct. The jam (Doin' that Rag, etc.) that often gets labeled "Action House" is a much earlier tape of uncertain origin. We have it listed under 09-29-69. (If you listen closely you'll hear T. C. on keyboards.) When T. C. was asked about this jam he didn't remember it.

12-28-70: The Dancin' and Viola Lee that often appear on this tape are from 04-12-70.

04-26-71: Apparently an audience tape of this show has circulated in Germany in which Walkin' the Dog appears between Hard to Handle and Dark Star. Careful examination of the common in-house soundboard reveals no splice there.

06-19-71: Actually 08-27-72.

12-09-71: Actually 12-10-71. Also some copies of the jam from this night have the first verse of the Other One edited out. Both verses were played.

08-27-72: This fine show has been misidentified as the following: 06-19-71, 08-28-72 and 10-24-74.

08-28-72: Actually 08-27-72.

02-22, 26-73: songlists in this book are correct.

10-??-73: Years ago someone put together a compilation of various first set songs from 1973 and called it "Grateful Dead - Lima, Peru." This evolved over time into "Lima, Ohio." The Dead never played there. Really.

12-12-73: Many copies of the soundcheck contain Unbroken Chain and Pride of Cucamonga which were actually done at some Mars Hotel rehearsals a few months later. As far as Unbroken Chain is concerned, we are 99.99% certain that this tune's first live performance took place at the Spectrum on 03-19-95, despite what Weir and some others vaguely recall to the contrary. We still don't know what the Dead were doing between 12-12 and 12-18.

05-25-74: Casey Jones was the sole encore. Johnny B.Goode was not played at this show, according to everyone we know who was there.

09-18-74: Sometimes mislabeled as 09-22 Paris.

10-24-74: Actually 08-27-72.

04-06-78: One of the soundboards of 04-10-78 is often mislabeled as Tampa. The tape was made by a former truck driver for the Dead who used to plug into the board frequently, and he somehow got this mixed up. (This is the tape with the Salt Lake City soundcheck.)

Songs Played

This section is devoted to the songs the Dead have performed. The first line of a citation lists our title for the song, its four-character abbreviation, the number of times it has been played, and the first- and last-time played dates. The second line identifies the "official" name for the song (or, if in quotes, a common nickname) and its author. Finally follows a list of those who have recorded the song.

Every Time Played

Since we introduced the complete version in DeadBase III, this list of every time that each song was played has become a favorite section for many readers. • The second column is a character abbreviation for the set that song was played in, making it possible to find all the acoustic To Lay Me Downs, or all the second-set Cassidys. Encores are listed as "E," acoustic sets as "A," electric sets as "L," the 1987 sets with Bob Dylan as "D," and half-sets (ie. 1.5) are listed as "1+." • The next number is the Last Time Played (or LTP) and indicates the number of shows since that song was last played (for the premiere of a song, this is the number of that show in the chronology of Dead concerts). • The final two columns contain four-character abbreviations for the previous and subsequent songs. These can be particularly helpful in determining to which show a given song list might belong (a key to the abbreviations can be found on page 596). When a song opens or closes a setlist, the column for the previous or subsequent song indicates that instead with a "OP" or "CL." When a song opens or closes a set, the code for the previous or subsequent song is printed in italics. Finally, when Bob Weir plays acoustic guitar the date is printed in italics.
